A BEAR FIGHT.

A correspondent of the Helena (Montana) Gazette, writing from Camp Green Clay Smith, near the Yellowstone, gives the folowing thrilling account of a bear fight :

owing thrilling account of a bear fight:
Orderly Sergeant S. R. Shroke, of Company E, Capalin Campbell, formerly of Munroe, Wis, having been In Montara something less than a year, thought he needs must signalize his mountain life by despatching, single handed, a hage grizzly. Accordingly, on the 5th inst, when out prospecting—being about fifly index from this earny, on the eastern brauch of the Bowlder—the opportunity was endranced to do so. Leisurely proceeding on his way, his tranquility of mind was suddenly directed by looking up and seeing a buge bear just ahead of him. Their eyes met simultaneously, Bruin's vengence glaring.—The sergeant halted, and creking his piece, the bear came right on, as if, understanding The sergeant halted, and or cking his piece, the bear came right on, is if, understanding the manyare, he would show how contemptiously he regarded it. But the scripeant, equally defiants—and prudence, perhaps, lost sight of, in their moved ambiliou which a majority of these recently from the East have, to kill a guizzly white in the mountains—levelled his rifle and fired, just as his savage for teared on his hind legs to close with him. His ballet struck close to, if it did not penetrate the Leatt. The bear tell. Recaining his first, with a there, terfit did not penetrate the Lead. The bear fell. Regaining his feet, with a theree, terrific growt, he wheeled and endeavored to rific growl, he wheeled and endeavored to escape.

Shroke called to his companion, who was probably a hundred and itty yards in the rear, to come quickty to him, and upon his arrivad they pursued the animal together.

When within twenty yards the sergeant, having releaded, again tired, and thinks he shot the bear well up in the shoulder, and about midway of the body. His companion, immediately succeeded with his bullet, planted a good onace of lead in one of the huge beast's shoulders. Brain now turned upon and pursued his focs. They stood their ground, and when Sergeant Shroze had releaded, the hear was within ten feet of him, coming with madated speed. He levelled when he almost longined he could feel the monster's bet hearth it his face.

The trigger is pulled—the percussion proves The trigger is pulled—the percussion proves faulty. With the undischarged gun in Ms hand a powerful blow of the inturated grizhand a powerful blow of the inhanded griz-zly carries may the greater portion of his scalp. Before reaching the ground the bear has caught in his mouth his left head and the jaws of his teeth meets among its cords and shews. The sergeant sinks to the ground beneath the shaggy giant, whose hold on his head is still unrelaxed, when his convenience and is still unrelaxed, when his companion reaches the spot and sends a lancet into the bear's head. Stanned, but still having mandere's vicility, the bear rolls over on his back and his red tongue again prortudes from his month to once more close on the sergeant. Quick as thought the sergeant thrust his head down the animal's these and forced may be in the content and the conte the sergeant thrust his hand flown the animal's throat and flercely grast eichistongue. His companion has reloaded his piece and puts a third bullet in the hear's head.—Again the hear withdrew his ivories, and catching in his mouth the sergeant's gun, commenced vigorously chewing off the sock. Now regaining his feet, the sergeant discharged two builts inou his revolver. These ended the contest with the death of the hear.

The sergesat returned to camp in indes-eribable agony, and, though still suffering great pain, is in a fair way of speedy recov-ery; but he will carry to his last moment the sears of this desperare adventure. He says he "has killed the bar, and don't want nothen more to do with the crittera."

the following extracts: Hobiason Patter Duan was born in New-port, May 31, 1825. Fo extremely deli-cate was his physical organization, that this carly classical studies were pursued at home. His health was already impaired by serious illness when he entered College but instead inness when he entered conge but instead of operating to related his progress, his long seclusion by surrounding him with influences becausing vertice and grace. He can be to when still a child in appearance and in years, and his elender form, his finely cut features, his flowing locks, night well have ceitined but the name that was bestweed on fratures, his flowing locks, might well have gained him the name that was bestowed on Million when at Cambridge, "the lady of his College." Yet while so young, and still offering from a most palaful malady, such were his attainments that, from the outset, lie ted his class, and gaulanted with its highest honors. The tradition of his almost faultless rehelarship is still cherished; and his surviving teachers have sanctioned it with their somoving testinony. His faelity of acquisition was univoiled; his percention inigalarly keen and quick; his ity of acquisition was univance; his per-ception singularly keen and quick; his inchory remarkably tenacious. Add to all this a sense of responsibility, and an habitual scrioueness of purpose, that never allowed him to put mere brilliancy of natur-al gifts in the place of laborious, persistent application, and the triumphs of his College was a beautiful product of the college. application, and the trimphs of his College course seed no further explanation. He had little relish for the exact sciences, and his success in them deserved the greater praise. White easily securing the highest rank, he never forgot what was due to others, and such was his gentleness, and modesty and couriers, that his contrades halled his honors as their own. Having graduated in September, 1813, but little more than eighteen years of age, he passed a few months at home in literary studies. In the spring of 1814, he returned to College, and for the two following years gave instruction in the French language, while Professor Jowett, the head of that department, was in Europe. In the winter of 1846, he joined the Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church, at Princeton, New Jersey, in pressumer of a purpose which he had fondly chelished from his youth, of entering the Christian ministry. ourse need no further explanation. In 1818, Mr. Dunn received ordination In 1818, Mr. Dinn received ordination from the Presbytery of West Jerrey, and was settled over the First Presbyterian Church; at Canden, near Philadelphia.—
Here he devoted himself, with assiduity and success, to the duties of his calling. But the sphere of labor, to which he had so long looked forward, was not to be the sphere of his life's work. His tipe and various ac-complishments were destined to a more appropriate exercise than that supplied in the circle of parish cares. In the spring of 1951, he was called to the chair of Rhetoric and English Literature in this University, and, at the commencement following, en-tered upon the duties to which the remain-ing sixteen years of his life were given.

"On a late public occasion I expressed my willingness to see inpartial suffrage established at the South, and I believe that this opinion is entertained not only by a large majority of the intelligent and reflecting whites, but a so of the same class among the 'blacks.' I deprecate universal suffrage, not only on general principles, but especially in the case before us, breause I deny the right of Congress to prescribe the rules of citizenship in the States. The Suprendent cases that decision by an act Time of the United States, and Congress canot reverse that decision by an act Time States, however, are competent to constructive freedom of the blacks, and have placed, this fact beyond all probability of the same terms as it is to be exercised by the white man, guarding against the abuse of this privilege by establishing a slight edutational and property qualification for all classes." 1 10

At a democratic joilification in Hamilton, Olao, on Saturday evening, Vallandigham, the Democratic candidate for Wade's scal in the Senate made a speech in which he set forth some of his fine political theories, and gave some account of his adventures while exiled from the United States for his treason. able words and deeds. The Bishop of Rhode Island spoke brief-ly and cloquently. He said: the diocese over which I preside would not have existed over when the present would not have existed that for your Society. The induces of the Conference on my own mind was startling and ballowing. I was telling the Archbispop that I always put "Short's Questions" into the bands of all my candidates for confirmation, and that when a boy it was put into my own hands. The Archbishop turned round and said, Ah! here is Short, and though to was in the present of Short, and there he was, in the person of the venerable Bishop of St. Asaph; and surrounded as I was by portraits of the great departed and the great living. I was not sure which were which, and should have been scarcely surprixed in all Bishop Pierson had started up to phiress the Synod. Bishop Clark concluded by saying that the first cluttch plant-ed in Rhode Island was now standing and looking down upon their beautiful Narragansell Bay, a monument of the munifi-cence of the Propagation Society, and they were about to erect a granite monument to the memory of McSpatran, their first mis-sioners. slonary.

OCRRUSSIAN PERCHASE .-- Mr. J. J. Black, late of the Western Union Telegraph Expedition, has furnished a series of notes on the Russian American trading ports, which are printed by the State Department for general information. New Archangel is the chief depot of the Russian American Company, the Governor's residence, has a population of 600 to 700, and there is a railway capable of taking up a vessel of 400 lons, while an iron and brass foundry, a saw mill, and othor conveniences for repairing vessels exist. Cordage, canvas, and many other articles are obtained. The harbor is excellent, and wood, salmon and water can be had in abundance.

At Fort Constantine, on the Southwest side of Thargalouk Island, abundance of wood and water can be obtained, but no other supplies for a ship. Large numbers of Indians come here to barter their fors.

Fort St. Nicholas, near the head of Crock's Inlet, Is an important trading post. Vessels drawing twelve feet can ascend as far as the fo:1.

On Kodiak Island are five trading posts Plenty of water and salanon may be had at them all, but not wood.

At Omalasks, on the northeast side a Oundlaska Island, is an excellent harbor shellered from all winds, with a depth of 18 to 20 fathours, cand and much bottoms. Sea offer and fox are found here in large numbers. Fresh heef and water can be obtained, and in September and October of Potter, of the Pelliam Street House, lost from life premises a tin box containing fifteen hundred dollars in government bonds and a pocket book in which were soudry papers of no value except to the owner. On Thursday Mr. Job A. Pecklean Jr. discovered the pocket-hook on Swinburne and Cokhain's wharf and restored it to the owner. It appears that two or three days after the robbery, Messrs, S. and P. placed a pile of now lumber on their wharf; close beside another pile, and on the removal of this the pocket-book was found just where the two piles came together. Its contents appeared not to have been disturbed, and it was wrapped in a paper just us it was when taken away.

Good Templars' Fast, -Yesterday was observed by the order of Good Templars throughout the United States as a day of Fasting and prayer for the advancement of the Temperance cause.

Public exercises were held by Eureka Lodge No. 12 at their hall in Goffe's Building, corner of Thames Street and Long Wharf. The exercises consisted of singing, addresses and prayers, and were of a very interesting character. Addresses brief and to the point, were delivered by Rev. Messus. Malcom and Talbot, and by Dr. T. W. Wood and Benjamin Muniford, Esq., and also by Mr. William Warning, Worthy Chief Templar of the Lodge. Prayers were offered by the Chaplain and by Messrs, S. A. Bates and William Colton. There was a respectable audience present, consisting of members of the order and others,

DEMOREST'S FASHION PLATES, -- We have received. Mme. How to Avoid Autumunt Discust

Hall's Journal of Health cave, the cause of autumnal diseases is an emanation from the surface of the earth in those localities where surface of the earth in those presences where are found in combination, beat, moleture, and vegetable inatter, such as leaves, wood, &c., for the heat of eighty degrees, combined with moisture influees deeny, and from this decaying substance something arises which, if breathed or otherwise takes into the system, induces the disease sooner or later.

Ider.

Persons must avoid living in localities where the land is riet; I'a! and most. They must drain these lands; but it is possible to live in such places, and have reasonably good heelth, rimply by keeping in the house of monthes, with a bresk blazing fire until breakfast is enter, and take supper as sundown, because it has been found that these emanations are more poisonous at sunrise and sunset, and that if the stomach is excited to action by the process of digestion, the emanation is rendered innocuous, perhaps from the fact, in part, of the juices of the stomach at the time of life of these living things; but the fact remains the same whether this supposition is true or not.

The editor says, of the practise of keeping whether this supposition is frue or not. The editor says, of the practise of keeping windows continuously open, persons living on water courses, wherethe "hottom lands," as they are called, are rich, hazurlaut and damp, will save health and life itself by keeping all outside doors and windowsopening into chambers closed from sundown to course of which the these authorities are the three authorities. sunrise, during the three autumnal months, in fever and ague or intermittent localities,

Adjutant Learning of the 13th Tennessee Union Cavairy, publishes a reply to the rebel Gen. Forrest's denial that there was a nine. sacre at Fort Pillow, in which he says: "I was myself deliberately shot down after I had surrendered, and while lying on the the rebels, and when our men had entirely ceased to offer resistance. These atrocities were renewed early the following morning. when two unarmed, helpless, wounded Fed. eral soldiers were shot within thirty feet of where I was lying at the time."

A Washington special says two tickets vere nominated at Richmond last night in opposition to the Hunnicult ticket, but will be withdrawn on account of the nomination by the opposition of Marmaduke Johnson, N. A. Sturdivant, A. H. Saunders, W. Tayor and T. J. Evans.

It is stated that Senstor Morgan has obfained a promise that Callicott shall not be removed from the Collectorship of Brooklyn until aftér his trist.

Air official order is to be published Thurs day, showing that Mr. Lieber, Superintendent of the Bureau of Revel Archives, was dismissed by Gen. Grant on economical grounds.

Gen. Kilpatrick's resignation was in conquence of an order requiring all persons in the diplomatic service to resign army commissions.

The serenaders cheered the President and democratic party last night.

A man who was gardener for President Lincoln, and who is now keeping a rum shop in Washington, has been trying lately to sell letters of Mrs. Lincoln requesting him to commit forgery and perjury to defraud the Government, and wants to sell the history of the secrets of Mrs. Lincoln's donestio affairs.

The Covernment printing force has been educed by furloughs until November.

First Assistant Postmaster Skinner is still rostrated by serious illness. There is now, however, a slight improvement and hope are entertained of his recovery. At least 130 army officers are in Washingon and elsewhere awaiting the subsidence of yellow fever before proceeding to their posts in Texas. Gen. Hussien is still the object of marked attentions by prominent officers of the Government. He will leave here in a day or two for New York, whence he will sail for President Johnson and Gen. Grant reriewed to-day on the grounds of the Executive Mansion the 12th Regiment Infantry, together with portions of the 5th Cavalry and the Veteran Reserve Corps, on duty a headquarters. Another dispatch from Philadelphia states that the Republican State Central Committee of Pennsylvania have determined to contest the election of Judge Sharswood. His majority is less than 800, and they feel sure of proving that over 2000 fraudulent votes were east in Philadelphia alone.

The theological school at Meadville has twenty-five students now present, with five or six more expected. Of these, one is a Campbellite, six are "Christians" and eighteen are Unitarians.
